

JAPS AT MUNDA FEEL U. S. ARTILLERY FIRE

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

WHILE we are awaiting developments in the war theater I have on hand an intriguing question which you might like to try your hands at answering, and it starts like this:

"Doesn't Hitler know that he will be beaten in the long run?"

When that was submitted to me I replied without hesitation:

"Of course he does. And so does the German high command, for they are top-flight soldiers, and the cards patently are against them."

"Well, then," persisted my questioner, "Why doesn't Hitler quit now, and save unnecessary bloodshed and suffering for his country?"

That's not so easy to answer, is it? When you sit down to figure it out, a lot of different angles rush to the mind. The first thing that struck me was that my reply hadn't been complete and that therefore I was starting out from a faulty premise.

I should have said that Hitler and his military experts know they are beaten—barring some unforeseen development in the nature of a near miracle. The odds are vastly against them, but there's always a possibility that fate might give them a break. And so long as there is a whisper of chance remains, just so long will the Boche hang on—unless frenzy overcomes morale.

What then is there to encourage them in holding out? In answering this it's mighty important for us to remember, that any straw is a life-raft to a drowning man. In brief we may say that any development which is unfavorable to the Allies is grabbed by the enemy as a potential means of salvation.

As we watch the Boche eagerly to see what hurts he has sustained and whether his morale is breaking, so he watches us. And in his "waiting" condition he's bound to magnify little straws of hope.

Take this for illustration: Yesterday London, in reporting on the damage done to the German industrial city of Dortmund by bombing, cited among other things that two collieries had been heavily damaged and probably put out of production. That's an important item which will help to beat Hitler.

Two collieries—my hat! We get satisfaction out of that, while at the same time our domestic news reports record that some 100,000 coal miners still are idle in this country. Birmingham tells us that this has resulted in a cut of 20 percent in Alabama steel production. It's said the reduction will mean a loss of 2,000 tons of war-vital steel every 24 hours.

How much hope do you suppose the Axis extracts from a grave situation like our coal strike? That's enough to give the shaky morale of the Axis a little more life.

Thus do the Nazis take fresh courage from every breakdown in a vital industry in an Allied country. Strikes, race riots, political squabbles, and what not in the United Nations are choice bits to be rolled under the facile tongue of Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels. His business is to make big issues out of little ones—and he's pretty smart.

We people here in America are casting plenty of straws into the torrent for the enemy to grasp. One of the most disquieting aspects of the situation is the development in some parts of the country. You can

OVERSEAS VETS TALK IT OVER

TWO VETERANS of battles overseas talk over their experiences as they sit on the grounds of the U. S. Army medical center in Washington. The patient is Pfc. John F. Grzybowski, who was recalled from overseas duty. He is talking to Lieut. Mary Lohr, Army nurse, who was evacuated by bomber from Bataan to Australia just before the peninsula fell to the Japs. ITALY SHUNS PEACE TALK

Gayda Sees No Gain By Getting Out of War at Present Time

(By Associated Press) BERN, Switzerland, July 2.—Fascist propagandists, taking a new tack in their campaign to bolster the Italian will to fight, were engaged today in developing the thesis that Italy has nothing to gain by a separate peace and her only course is to resist to the end.

No less an authority than Virginio Gayda, Italy's best known journalist and a Fascist party spokesman, hammered home this idea in an article in the Giornale d'Italia which apparently reflected concern over Allied attempts to convince the Italian people they would do well to get out of the war now.

"An eventual exit of Italy from the war—that is, the conclusion of a separate peace, which would never succeed—would in no way free the Italians from the war, its tragedy and destruction," Gayda wrote.

While making no direct reference to Germany, Gayda declared that in the event Italy made a separate peace the remaining belligerents would make Italy a battleground.

Gayda's article was a straight forward exposition of the theme which the Italian press has been harping on daily—that no matter what the Italian people wish they have no recourse but to fight and that their only hope is to string along with Fascism.

Popolo Di Roma said the Italian people were "impatiently awaiting the first enemy landing attempt," adding that "less depends on the first action than on the various actions which will follow the landings."

Certificate Honors Memory of Soldier

"He lived to bear his country's arms. He died to save its honor" reads the certificate of honor from the U. S. Army Air Forces which has been received by Mr. and Mrs. John P. Sutherland, W. State st., from Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the U. S. Army Air Forces, in tribute to their son, Pfc. John P. Sutherland "who gave his life in the performance of his duty July 7, 1942."

Sutherland, an aerial gunner, was the first Salem boy to be officially reported as killed in action. The certificate continues: "He was a soldier.... he knew a soldier's duty. His sacrifice will help to keep aglow the flaming torch that lights our lives.... that millions yet unborn may know the priceless joy of liberty. And we who pay him homage and revere his memory, in solemn pride re-dedicate ourselves to a complete fulfillment of the task for which he so gallantly placed his life upon the altar of man's freedom."

123 JAPANESE PLANES LOST, YANKS LOSE 25

Admiral Halsey Gives Report of Fighting Over New Georgia Islands

FIGHTING COVERS TWO-DAY PERIOD

U. S. Pilots Practically Repeat Recent Guadalcanal Feats

(By Associated Press) SOUTH PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, July 2.—Admiral William F. Halsey's South Pacific headquarters announced today that 123 Japanese planes were shot down over the New Georgia Islands Wednesday and Thursday against American losses of 25 planes and 15 pilots.

A total of 101 enemy planes were knocked out of the sky Wednesday, the day our forces landed in the Central Solomons, and 17 American planes were destroyed but seven of their pilots were saved.

The next day the Japanese lost an additional 22 aircraft. American losses in the continuing air battle were eight planes, the pilots of three of which landed safely.

Repeat Performances

On the first day of the invasion, the enemy divided his attacks between ship and land targets. Land positions only were raided yesterday.

Army, Navy and Marine pilots thus practically repeated their remarkable performance over Guadalcanal two weeks before when the score was 34 Japanese planes destroyed to six American lost.

The Navy Transport McCawley, which sank without loss of a single man after an aerial attack on the first day of the Rendova landings, was the only American ship lost in the operation, headquarters announced. The McCawley was known widely as the flagship of the Fifth Fleet last August.

Headquarters also disclosed that the occupation by Marines of Viru harbor of the main island of New Georgia (announced previously by Gen. Douglas MacArthur) was achieved after the American forces had fought their way through a "hugle" against "medium" Japanese opposition.

Those Marines, headquarters said, were landed as an advance element several days before the main push.

Chinese Hint of Japan Attack in Siberia Area

CHUNGKING, July 2.—The Chinese newspaper Ta Kung Pao declared today the Japanese had been rushing troops to Manchuria and said "it is plain as day" the enemy "is preparing to attack Siberia."

Three army commanders recently have been transferred to that area from the Pacific, the newspaper added. It also coupled a special Japanese military conference, which it said was now in session in Korea, with the Manchuria preparations.

SOLONS AFTER FEUD DETAILS

Jesse Jones Expected To Testify Regarding Row With Wallace

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, July 2.—Big and rugged Jesse Jones was invited up to Capitol Hill today, into the congressional spotlight searching for details of the feuding between him and Vice President Wallace.

The house rules committee asked the commerce secretary to testify, ostensibly, on a resolution by Rep. Coffee (D-Wash.) proposing an investigation of financial assistance by the government for development of the Shipshaw power and aluminum project in Canada.

But Rep. Cox (D-Ga.), committee member, said the session likely would devote itself to an inquiry into the Wallace-Jones ruckus.

Meanwhile, Senator Bridges (R-NH) proposed that the senate military committee investigate relations between the Board of Economic Warfare (BEW), headed by Wallace, and the Jones-directed Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC), in the purchase of war materials.

Jones himself has requested an inquiry into the vice president's charges that Jones engaged in "obstructionist tactics" against BEW's "single minded effort to help short-land this war by securing adequate stocks of strategic metals."

Wallace, in turn, was accused by Jones of "malice and misstatements." The RFC furnishes money for BEW purchases of strategic metals.

Rep. Coffee said he wanted to learn from Jones today "why $70,000,000 was loaned, interest free, for development of the Shipshaw project in Canada, and why it was kept secret for two years."

Navy Pushes New Attacks In Pacific

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Navy said today American dive bombers assaulted Japanese defense positions in the Munda area of the Central Solomons, as the twin-pronged offensive in the Solomons and in the New Guinea area continued.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, July 2.—Artillery shelling of the big Japanese air base at Munda in the Central Solomons, destruction of 101 enemy planes and the consolidation everywhere along a 700-mile front of Allied gains under a canopy of bombers and fighters were announced today as successes in the as yet young Pacific offensive.

Never before in this war has this area witnessed such coordinated blows of power, speed and surprise struck by the Navy, ground troops and airplanes under the supreme command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In the two sectors of action, New Guinea and the Solomons, the most immediate progress was reported for the eastern army of the two-pronged drive.

Today's communique disclosed that the United States forces which landed Wednesday on Rendova Island had destroyed the small Japanese garrison there by mid-day and within two hours after debarking from barges were firing shore batteries at the Munda air base five miles away.

Seizure of the only harbor in the New Georgia sector, Viru, 30 miles from Munda, also was announced. Hard fighting preceded capture.

The Japanese attested concern for this new menace posed not only at Munda but at air bases in the northern Solomons and at Rabaul, New Britain, by pouring medium bombers, dive bombers, torpedo planes and fighters at the landing parties and at Allied shipping.

"Latest advices do not indicate the total number involved in the action but 101 enemy planes were destroyed in the air combat and by anti-aircraft fire," the communique said.

"Seventeen of our planes are missing."

Allied casualties to date in the Solomons operations were said by a spokesman for general MacArthur to be light.

Beef Ration Values Hiked

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Office of Price Administration, predicting a new low in beef supplies available for civilians in July, today increased ration values of beef cuts by another point a pound, and in a few cases, 2 points.

The new point values for beef, which place the ration cost of the most popular cuts at from 9 to 13 points, become effective July 4.

Unlike the supply situation, however, the new point values will remain in effect until Aug. 1.

Officials said the revised values were based on the present "bad" meat supply situation, with no allowance for improvement or deterioration. Any appreciable change in the supply might necessitate changes before the end of the month.

In addition to higher point values for beef, OPA also raised red coupon costs of some cuts of veal, lamb and mutton from 1 to 2 points a pound. These cuts include leg of veal, veal cutlets, veal loin and rib chops, and similar lamb-mutton cuts. Point values of the most popular pork cuts were not changed.

OPA Takes Action In Face Of Dwindling Supplies; Other Changes Made

Officially said the revised values were based on the present "bad" meat supply situation, with no allowance for improvement or deterioration. Any appreciable change in the supply might necessitate changes before the end of the month.

In addition to higher point values for beef, OPA also raised red coupon costs of some cuts of veal, lamb and mutton from 1 to 2 points a pound. These cuts include leg of veal, veal cutlets, veal loin and rib chops, and similar lamb-mutton cuts. Point values of the most popular pork cuts were not changed.

Fish Items Affected

Canned fish items, with the exception of oysters, were increased from 8 to 12 points. Oysters went up from 3 to 5 points.

"Red" reductions were confined for the most part to the fats, oils and dairy products groups. Margarine and lard dropped 1 point—5 to 4—while "process" butter, sold mainly in the south, appeared on the table for the first time at 4 points a pound. Regular butter remains unchanged at 8 points.

Cheddar cheese retains a value of 8 points a pound, but lower values were established for group 2 and 3 cheeses. Group 2, which includes cream, neufchatel and creamed cottage cheese (containing more than 5 percent butter fat) now are listed 7 points a pound.

150 WOMEN ATTEND NUTRITION SESSION

More than 150 women attended the fourth Thursday for Victory meeting Thursday night in the High school auditorium, sponsored by the Lions club.

The importance of the wartime household schedule was discussed by Miss Trowbridge.

Mrs. Carl Abe and Mrs. John Lewis, members of the Lions auxiliary, assisted Lions Harold Shears, Carl Abe, Glenn Thayer and L. G. Freeman in completing program plans.

The July meal planning guide, containing 300 new recipes, may be obtained from L. G. Freeman or William Rae.

The topic for the next meeting Thursday, Aug. 5, will be "Basic Seven," illustrating the use of the essential foods.

BLAMING THE MIRROR

President Roosevelt again has asked for and received permission to attack the free press of the United States through its own columns.

This time he wants the public to believe that friction in his official family is caused by newspapers which publish stories calculated to cause trouble. He also blames radio commentators to some extent, but his chief resentment is against the press.

It has not occurred to the President that this is like blaming the mirror for what is reflected in it. The press has reported no squabbles that didn't exist. It has kept its faith with the American people to keep them informed.

Mr. Roosevelt's desire for less criticism of his administration is understandable; like most human beings he is sensitive to criticism. His predecessors in the presidency have complained about the press, too, for the same reason. It is a difficult relationship to maintain.

On the whole, Mr. Roosevelt has enjoyed a somewhat better understanding of the relationship between a free press and a free government than the majority of chief executives. He has profited by this to the extent that at no time in the country's history has an administration received more comprehensive news coverage than has been given the New Deal.

But he has made the mistake of wanting all the news to be good, whether it was good or bad. He has been particularly sensitive to criticism based on news. In fact, he has come dangerously close to taking the position that his administration should be above criticism. Even the newspapers which "color" the news in his favor cannot subscribe to that viewpoint, of course.

When lesser political figures start flailing the press and "running for editor," the newspapers try to be patient, on the assumption that some politicians must resort to almost anything to get attention. The press thinks the chief executive of the United States should be above such tactics and is genuinely sorry to see Mr. Roosevelt employ them, but it will continue to do its job in the democracy, which is to report what is happening. If the image in the mirror isn't flattering, it's the image, not the mirror, that needs improving.

DEMOCRACY NEEDS NO APOLOGY

Nothing gives the lie to confidence in democracy like Americans who feel called on to apologize for it. They are red-necked and embarrassed at present because the government's conduct of the war on the home front is being opened to criticism and change, which is clearly in line with the democratic way of doing things. They literally writhe in humiliation because their countrymen sometimes use their inalienable right of free speech to make rude and tactless remarks. They are bothered, by congress, by the fact that touchy subjects like labor's right to strike in wartime are discussed openly and by the general impression of confusion that the United States must be making on other governments and their people.

One gathers they would be more comfortable in their minds if all the country's strains and dislocations were concealed beneath the superficial efficiency of authoritarian rule, which simply denies that anything ever can go wrong. They actually compare the United States with Russia and even with Germany—where everything seems to go like clockwork—as though not realizing the impudence of comparing dictatorship with democracy during a war to make international dictatorship impossible.

Democracy needs no apology. If its processes shame its own sensitive beneficiaries, or shock critical observers in South America, where the United States is trying to make a good impression, that may be unfortunate but it is inevitable. If one characteristic of democracy is more conspicuous than the rest, it is the fact that confusion, like everything else, is conducted in the open.

REP. ENGEL ON TOUR

When Michigan's Rep. Albert J. Engel goes on tour, he picks up live information for his congressional associates. He has discovered on a new 44-day junket that some incredibly high wages are being paid in war plants.

While this hardly can be called sensational information in Washington, it is likely that Rep. Engel's manner of presenting it will call attention to some previously neglected aspects of high wages. His comparison with military wages, which are low, is less important than the attention he has directed to the relationship between high wages and such vexing war problems as inflation and food shortages.

Ability of consumers with suddenly inflated incomes to pay more for food and to buy more food has been the root of the problem of rising prices and dwindling supplies. Despite increases in the cost of food, many consumers benefiting from high war wages are spending a smaller share of their income for food now than they were spending two years ago. The 18-year-old girl who recently had been a ribbon clerk and now is making $3,380 a year—one of Rep. Engel's prize exhibits—is in no mood to worry about the high cost of living. She is part of it. She likes it.

Perhaps that is, indirectly, Rep. Engel's great discovery on this trip. The people doing the serious worrying about inflation aren't the ones with lots of extra money to spend.

BATTLE OF THE ATLANTIC

The victory being claimed in the battle of the Atlantic may be the most important war development of 1943—yet it cannot be appreciated properly because no one can know for certain what happened.

As in the other war, when a combination of British and American sea power broke the force of the German blockade, the extent of the victory cannot be determined until the end of the war and the release of confidential information, some of it now in possession of the Germans. Only they are in a position to know whether their submarine campaign has failed, and if it has they won't admit it.

But if it has failed, if the United Nations can send convoys across the Atlantic in virtual safety, Germany knows its defeat is certain. At the present rate of production and shipbuilding, the timetable of invasion might be revised completely. Everything could be advanced, or carried out on a larger scale. It has been no secret that the submarine blockade hit hard where it hurt most. If German submarines have met "total defeat," as Prime Minister Churchill claims, a victory as important in its effect as that in North Africa has been gained—a triumph for Allied sea power rivaled only by America's accomplishment against Japan in the Pacific.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, July 3

THIS SHOULD be a day to develop current interests and put them on a firmer and more enduring basis, mainly by attention to details. Changes may bring unforeseen progress, but in all there is need to be wise in forming definite decisions, as in spots there may be doubts or mental confusion. Social, domestic, artistic and affectional associations give pleasure. Those whose birthday it is may look for a fair opening to push desired plans and projects to a fortunate climax, largely by the employment of clever, original or unusual revisions, changes or even unique tactics. These should be founded on sound reason and good sense, with adherence to principle rather than expediency, as there is hint of an obscure, illogical plan or idea failing to give satisfaction. Deceptive factors may menace. In social, domestic and romantic affiliations there should be much activity and pleasure.

A child born on this day may possess an astute, shrewd and original mentality, with much stability of character which should carry it to security and success.

A statistical estimate issued by the Department of Agriculture says: "There are 35,000,000 acres less under cultivation in this country now than in the last World War." If the tens of thousands in Washington uselessly occupying swivel chairs were sent out into the country and required to earn a living, these acres might be cultivated, and no shortage shown in the report.

Of course, everybody is preparing to celebrate July Fourth in a safe and sane way—remaining at home and watching from the front porch the throng going by.

Some Ills Need Cure of Mind and Body

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE HAVE been discussing this week, a somewhat new development, technically called psychosomatic medicine, which rests on the idea that in a great many diseases not only the body but also the mind and the soul are disturbed, and that they progress together, one influencing the other, towards recovery or towards a more and more involved state of invalidism. The conception is valuable both from the standpoint of the causation of invalid states and also for their treatment. Certainly one of the legitimate criticisms against the average practitioner of medicine at the present time is that he regards all of his invalids from one of two viewpoints. Either he thinks the disturbance is entirely from malfunction of the body and that it can be treated by cathartics and pills and diet and massage and such things alone, or he veers to the other extreme and thinks that the mind, soul and emotions of the patient are primarily to blame and by the use of suggestion and other forms of psychotherapy he can bring about a complete readjustment.

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Functional Somatic Changes

The science of psychosomatic medicine holds to the belief that neither of these views alone is entirely serviceable either to explain the causation or the treatment of disease of this kind.

Of course, it must be remembered that when we refer to the somatic changes, we mean functional somatic changes. A patient may have a pneumonia which is caused by the entrance of a germ into the lungs and produces completely organic changes that can be seen and felt and detected under the microscope. Nothing that the patient thinks or feels about this condition has any influence on it at all.

But take such a functional condition as the headache which we call migraine, which comes in attacks, or the extreme fatigue that goes with neurasthenia; while these symptoms are very real, we have never been able to find any change in the tissues of the body of which they are the seat to explain the symptoms. A muscle, when it contracts, makes a functional change; so does an intestine when it goes into cramps. After the muscular spasm is over, the muscle and the intestine look exactly the same as before. This is what we mean by functional.

Anxiety Neuroses

Besides neurasthenia and migraine the psychosomatic advocates think of anxiety neuroses, states of mental depression, neuralgia, many forms of arthritis and dyspepsia as examples of psychosomatic disease.

The entire field of the endocrine glands is a very good example of psychosomatic medicine. The gland secretes too much or too little and it may not appear to be diseased whatever under the microscope. And yet emotional factors may cause this increase or decrease in secretion, which in turn creates the symptoms of which the patient complains.

plains. Quite evidently in all these different conditions it is quite as important to approach the patient from the mental, emotional and psychic side, as well as to take advantage of the use of medicine, diet, massage, baths, exercise and a dozen other modalities known to the modern physician.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. B. B.: What about women with valvular disease of the heart due to rheumatic fever bearing children?

Answer: If the heart has compensated, this can be done without jeopardy. I once knew a patient with this condition who had had thirteen children.

D. C.: Is it true a tuberculin vaccine would show if you ever had tuberculosis? Would a fluoroscope be more accurate? I have heard they were dangerous to a patient.

Answer: A tuberculin skin test is absolutely accurate in tuberculosis, but it does not tell whether the tuberculous was recently acquired, or is healed or where it quired, or is healed or where it quired. The fluoroscope is an X-ray with the patient standing in front of a screen so that the X-ray man can see the chest, but it does not take a permanent film. In my opinion a permanent X-ray film, which really means a photograph, is the only way tuberculosis shows up by means of the X-ray. Neither tuberculin nor fluoroscope is harmful.

THE 'THIRD FRONT'—GUERRILLAS

GUERRILLA ACTIVITY in many areas of Hitler-held territory is on the increase. Reports from abroad indicate that these seemingly sporadic outbursts are all part of an integrated plan—a "third front"—put into effect by United Nations officials in Great Britain. Specially trained native leaders are landed by Allied planes and by parachute at secret locations in Europe. These men, welcomed by their countrymen, direct the blowing up of bridges, firing of warehouses, raiding of Nazi military posts and killing of officers and sabotaging of war production. They coordinate the "silent" war against the invader. Some of the most recent activities of these guerrilla bands and armies are shown on the map.

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 2.—Congress, after voting stupendous sums for America's war effort, showed an increasing concern today with the cost, and how efficiently those sums were being spent.
As the house heard charges that war contractors were making as much as 53 per cent profit, the senate undertook an exhaustive inquiry into what happened to the $330,000,000 given the Army and Navy practically without argument over the months since Axis aggression engulfed this nation.
Rep. Engel (R-Mich.), a one-man investigating committee who toured dozens of factories, delivered his second report which accused companies of including their tax obligations in reckoning costs of production. Thus, he contended, Uncle Sam in final analysis, paid the taxes for those firms. In his first report, he charged the administration with encouraging excessive wages in war plants.
The senate's long-named committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures indicated a desire to put the brakes on further such as the $71,500,000,000 record war department measure approved this week. Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) said he thought the war could be prosecuted for another two years without appropriating another dollar.

Would Check Expenditures
Senator George (D-Ga.) added that he felt the time had come for congress to look thoroughly into all proposed military expenditures. He said taxpayers were "entitled to know there is no extravagance or waste."
Wrangling over a host of appropriations still jammed up funds for war agencies but house and senate conferees were making some progress. Rewritten versions of the accounts for the Offices of Price Administration and War Information were called up for action by both branches.
Congressional ire over the Federal Communications commission hit a new climax as the house Cox committee started public hearings in its investigation of the agency. Committee documents listed more than 50 charges, ranging from general incompetency to endangerment of the national security, against the agency.

The house rules committee invited Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones to talk about a Canadian project but it was thought likely that he would be quizzed about his hot feud with Vice President Wallace over the operation of the Board of Economic Warfare.

The house naval committee disclosed that demands of industry for modification of the law authorizing recovery of excess war profits probably would not be acted on this year. Acting Chairman Drewry (D-Va.) said a report on a study of the law would be made until after the impending summer recess of Congress.

Signs that the senate isn't anxious to override another presidential veto showed up in back stage discussions of the administration's rejected program to subsidize retail price rollbacks. Expecting Mr. Roosevelt to veto the legislation, some senators indicated they'd prefer to restrict such subsidies, rather than prohibit them entirely.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—The final report of the appeal of the film industry to its own people for Red Cross donations shows a total of $462,187.67 from 20,737 contributors. James Cagney acted as bookkeeper and accountant, crediting 43 separate accounts, including guilds, unions, crafts and occupational groups, as well as the studios themselves.

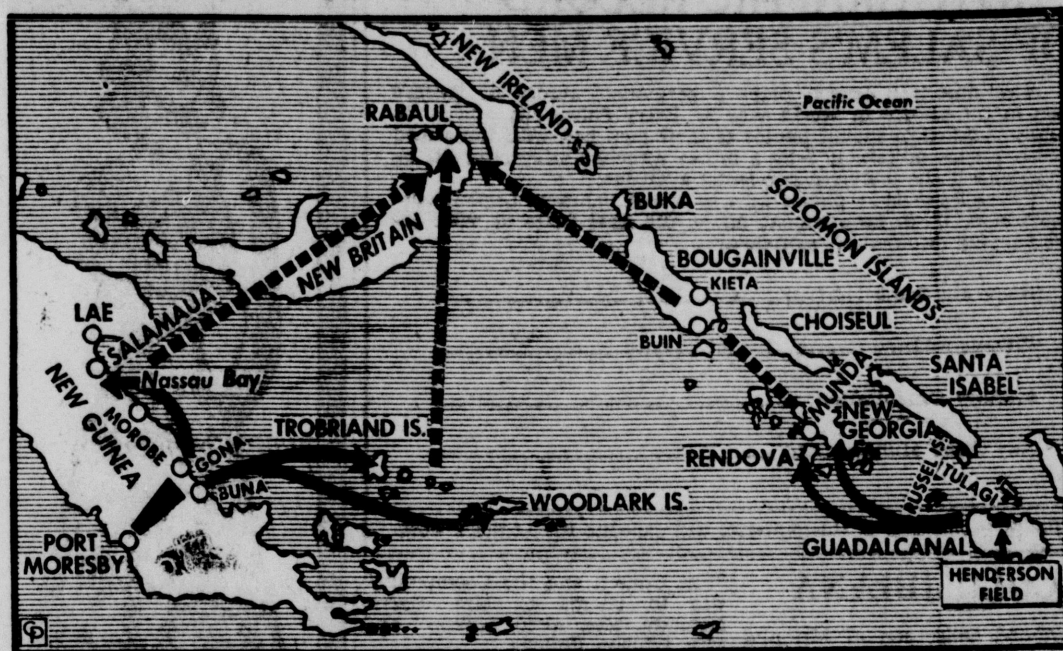

The American soldier's average coffee ration is 40 cups a month.

ALLIED OFFENSIVE GAINS AGAINST JAPS IN PACIFIC

NEW OFFENSIVE by the Allies against the Japanese in the South Pacific is believed to be preliminary to the big drive to oust the enemy from his possessions that will come if the present attacks are successful. Dark arrows on map above show the present offensives and the broken arrows indicate possible later moves against the large Jap bases at Rabaul, New Britain, and on Bougainville Island in the northern Solomons. Allied forces might then move against the Japs' most powerful Pacific bastion, Truk island, shown right. (International)

Small Craft Used By British In War

NEW YORK—The British ministry of transport has acquired 10,000 small boats, ranging from yachts, converted into patrol boats, to Thames paddle-steamer turned into cranes for service in future war operations, the British information service reports.

The small boats have proven useful in fulfillment of various war tasks. Defying open seas, bad weather and enemy action, many of the barges, tugs and ferries have sailed the 12,000 miles around the cape.

The craft have so far been employed in transporting supplies, delivering and collecting mail, ferrying sailors to and from shore leave, and as tugs, fire fighting and salvage vessels.

Although controlled by the navy, the boats are purchased or requisitioned by the ministry of transport.

City Boys In Farm School Aid In War

DOYLESTOWN, Pa.—National Farm school here, which for 47 years has taken city-bred boys and made them successful and sometimes champion agriculturists, is geared to war pace.

The 80 students are engaged 100 per cent in war food production and the greenhouses yielded more than 30,000 plants for Victory gardens. More than that, one-year courses have been opened for boys wishing to specialize in one subject, educational requirements have been dropped to accommodate boys under draft age, and courses run the year around. The full course is three years, free tuition, for boys 16 years or older.

Founded by a Philadelphia rabbi, Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, the school has graduated 1,200 boys, not two dozen of whom had ever been on a farm before enrollment. Supported by private gifts, state and public welfare funds, National Farm school is non-sectarian and comprises numerous dormitories, classroom buildings, 232 head pure-bred cattle, 20 horses, a battalion of tractors, many greenhouses, a poultry farm with 10,000-egg incubator, 1,200 acres of crop land and orchards.

RATION POINTS ON BEEF ARE BOOSTED

at 2 points a pound, and group 3, made up of Swiss, brick, munster and all other rationed cheese, 5 points. In each group there is a decrease of 1 point.

OPA also announced 17 changes in point values of processed foods, 12 upward and 5 downward.

Vegetable List Advance
point value advances were made in seven vegetable items, and five canned bottled fruits. These increases range from about 5 per cent for vacuum-packed whole kernel corn to over 50 per cent for tomato catsup and chili sauce. Processed foods marked up include apples, pears, fruit cocktail, peaches, apricots, fruit, beans, canned corn, peas, tomatoes, catsup, chili sauce and tomato paste, reductions were made in fresh shelled beans, green or wax beans, tomato pulp or puree and some tomato sauces.

The new "blue coupon" costs become effective July 4, and will remain valid through July. Pork point values were not increased, OPA said, because supplies of pork available during July are expected to be substantially larger than beef. By keeping pork point costs relatively cheap in comparison with beef, OPA hopes to whet the American appetite for pork.

In line with beef increases on the general list, OPA advanced point values for all kosher cuts except lamb.

Here are some of the new point values for preferred beef cuts, all up one point:

Porterhouse, T-bone, club, and sirloin steaks, 12 points; boneless sirloin, round and flank steaks, 13 points.

Beef roasts, for the most part, went up 1 point, but some advances were 2 points. Beef steaks and numerous other cuts also went up 1 point.

Lamb-mutton advances included: Loin chops, 10 points, up 1; Leg chops and steaks, 8 points, up 1; Leg roasts and sirloin roast, bone in, 7 points, up 1.

Only meats to show a reduction were three pork cuts—fat backs and ear plate, hams and regular plates, down 1 point a pound.

TROOP-CARRYING PLANES HELP ALLIED OFFENSIVE

BIG TROOP-CARRYING PLANES, like these pictured in flight over the Owen Stanley range in New Guinea, probably are aiding the big Allied offensive in the Pacific just as they did when the Americans and Australians drove across New Guinea several months ago. In addition to soldiers, the planes carry loads of ammunition, guns, jeeps, medicine and other supplies into battle zones. (International)

Clothing and barracks equipment cost the quartermaster corps $240 for the average soldier during his first year in the Army.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

see it for yourself if you look about, but I refer you to the staggering statement by Lt. General Brehon Somervell, commanding general of the Army Service forces, in the current issue of the trade publication Mill and Factory for specific evidence of this.

The general said that the army was so short of weapons and material that equipment employed in training soldiers was being sent abroad for combat use. He stated that the May output for the army's supply program was $106,783,000 under the month's quota of $100,000,000.

That's a bad score, and the reasons for it are shocking. General Somervell attributes the drop to several factors, including floods, labor shortages and turnover, stoppage, but "by far the greater part of the failure was due to the psychological let-down—the over-confidence that has swept the country with favorable news from the battle front."

In short, we are suffering from what the general describes as the "sedative effect" of good news from the war theaters. We shouldn't delude ourselves with the idea that

Theatre

With its story woven around the consequences of a Nazi invasion of a sleepy European village, "This Land Is Mine" stars Charles Laughlin and Maureen O'Hara in a stirring and timely drama of patriotism. The two stars have the roles of a pair of school teachers in the town, both of whom are drawn into the underground conflict between the local inhabitants and the Nazi troops. George Sanders is cast as Miss O'Hara's fiancé, Kent Smith and Nancy Gates have the leading romantic roles. The film will be at the State tonight and Saturday.

The new musical comedy, "All By Myself," billed at the Grand tonight and Saturday, co-stars Patricia Knowles and Evelyn Ankers. Also showing is "Carson City Cylene."

State legislatures of Colorado and Wisconsin have adopted statewide retirement systems for municipal employees.

The Boche don't know this, for their agents are everywhere. It looks decidedly as though it were time for an offensive on the home front.

Bathing Cap Saves Life of Girl 15, During Storm

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — A bathing cap saved the life of Ruth Harris, 15, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Harris, when she was struck by lightning recently, doctors said. She was wearing the cap in a rainstorm while riding for the mail near her ranch home. The lightning struck her head and jumped to the rigging ring on the saddle, electrocuting the horse. When the horse fell, Ruth was pinned beneath it but was found several hours later by her mother. Although injured, she recovered. Physicians said the rubber cap apparently was insulation against the lightning bolt.

BATTLESNAKE CAUSE OF SIX-ACRE FIRE
PORTSMOUTH, Va.—A snake indirectly was blamed for a wood fire that burned over six acres of timberland in Princess Anne county.

According to Thomas S. Turner, district forester, three men were cutting timber when a rattlesnake crawled into view.

So, the woodcutters started a fire in the brush where the reptile disappeared. The blaze got out of hand and the three forgot all about the snake in their efforts to extinguish the flames.

One of the men pleaded guilty in court and was fined $10 and costs for starting the fire.

SPOT-WELDING NATURAL STYLE

WITH THE SECOND ARMY

In TENNESSEE—Mama Nature went in for fancy electric spot-welding here during a problem recently but an unidentified soldier failed to appreciate the demonstration. The doughboy had fixed himself up on the ground in his waterproof sleeping bag and was catching a little shut-eye in spite of a heavy rainstorm. There was a blinding flash and a loud crash followed by loud yells and violent wiggling from the soldier. Lightning had struck the zipper of the sleeping bag and had run all the way around it, welding him in. His buddies had to slit the bag with knives to get him out.

REPETITION NEEDED

TOPEKA, Kas.—After he had viewed a movie emphasizing accident-prevention on the farm, J. C. Mohler, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, walked to a window of the office where the film was shown. Attempting to open it, he smashed a finger. "Show that picture again," said he. "It didn't take the first time."

BARK LEAVES TREE

NOT DOGWOOD, EITHER
KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—This is a tall story from the Times and Advertiser. Harvey Rogers swam by it: His workmen felled a large tree in Claiborne county. The tree fell up the mountainside. After a 16-foot log was cut through the trunk, the log slid endways out of the bark down the mountain. The bark of the tree—which was a poplar and not slippery elm—just remained where it fell.

LAZIEST HEN

GREELEY, Colo.—Eureka! Folks in the court house believe they have discovered the world's laziest hen. She's in a flock that belongs to Mrs. Ben Ervine, who lives nearby. The hens dig worms each morn in the court house lawn. All but one of them go home to lay eggs. But this one chick is so lazy she lays the egg in the middle of the lawn.

ALARMING SITUATION

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—The clock shortage hereabouts was checked when Harold Miller reported to police his home was broken into, with only his alarm clock stolen.

Russian Magazine Spoofs At Defenses of Germans

MOSCOW—The latest issue of Crocodile, Soviet humorous periodical, spoofs the much-vaunted German defenses along the English channel with a full-page colored cartoon showing shores being defended by one lone gun and a one-legged soldier on crutches.

Behind the gun, a bunch of reporters sit with Goebbels at a picnic table loaded with wine bottles. The caption reads:

"On order from Berlin, journalists of vassal countries gleefully describe powerful reinforcements."

PASADENA, Cal.—The lowly wooden garbage pail has come into its own again. Facing a war priority shortage on galvanized iron garbage cans, the Board of City Directors has authorized the use of wooden garbage pails.

Jumps 40,000 Feet

PERSONAL TESTING of the U. S. Army's new ball-out oxygen equipment for high-altitude flying made a parachute jumper out of Lieut. Col. William R. Lovelace II, chief of the aero-medical laboratory at Wright Field, Ohio. To prove suitability of the equipment, Col. Lovelace wore it for a parachute jump—his first—from an altitude of 40,000 feet, one of the highest jumps on record, near Euphrata, Wash. The colonel is pictured above in Washington. His left hand was frozen when he lost a glove at the beginning of his descent. (International)

PRESIDENTS' YACHT GOES TO WAR

FORMER PRESIDENTIAL YACHT MAYFLOWER loses her one-time beauty and splendor, above, in a Norfolk, Va., shipyard as she is refitted for duty as the U. S. S. Butte, a Coast Guard convoy vessel. Toys for U. S. Hospital End Up In Leper Colony
A SOUTH PACIFIC BASE — A boxful of toys, collected "somewhere in the U. S. A." by the American Red Cross, is making a little group of Leper Colony children happy in remote New Caledonia.

The toys were assembled for a children's hospital, and by some mistake in shipping turned up in the Pacific war zone.

Red Cross Field Director Charles Mason of Cleveland, O., and Recreation Worker Lela Hostetter of Long Beach, Cal., who received the box, decided to extend their humanitarian work to the lepers.

The toys, from simple wooden blocks to elaborate wind-up gadgets, were trucked inland to the isolated colony and were received joyfully by the children, according to Mason.

In addition to the two pairs of shoes issued every American soldier on entering the service, three extra pairs must be available in reserve.

Combat Pilots Show Naval Air Cadets "How It's Done"

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Correspondent

NAVAL AIR STATION, Jacksonville, Fla.—You come down to Florida with a group of newspaper men to see them train young men to be "tough-as-hell" combat fliers in the U. S. Navy, and it's very impressive.

Most impressive of all, to this writer, were: (1) The spirit and eagerness of the Naval cadets themselves; (2) the splendid equipment for training purposes; and (3) the presence of flocks of combat-experienced fliers.

Making 'Em Tough As Hell'

It was the fighting men who impressed me most—men with decorations on their chests who've knocked down Japs from the skies or have been "through the mill" with the task forces.

They're telling our boys who will soon be in combat for the first time how it's done.

There's something very professional and business-like about the manner in which we're training our Naval fliers.

It was on the way down that I got the "tough-as-hell" expression used in the first paragraph of this article. At the Navy's pre-flight school at Chapel Hill, N. C., Commander John P. Graff told the press:

"We're teaching the aggressive spirit. That's why we stress competitive athletics. We teach 'em to get in there and kill—to be as tough as hell."

Meets a Veteran Flier

I had no sooner stepped out of my plane at Jacksonville than I met a "tough-as-hell" flier—slim, friendly, 38-year-old Lieut. Comdr. Thach, whom everybody calls "Jimmy." I had last interviewed Thach in Pearl Harbor, when he came in with the ill-fated carrier Lexington which had been attacked by the Japs in the Coral Sea on Feb. 20, 1942.

Thach and Edward H. (Butch) O'Hare were then the heroes of the "Butch" got shot of a squadron of nine Jap bombers as they were attempting to blast the Lexington.

Thach, commander of the "Fighting Squadron 3," shot down 19 of the 20 attacking Jap planes which, Thach says today with a broad smile, is "pretty good." Naturally, he is very proud of that achievement and of the squadron.

He reports that "Butch" has succeeded him in command of this famous squadron and is now somewhere in the combat zone.

Was In Coral Sea Battle

Thach, who is now teaching young fliers gunnery and air combat tactics at Jacksonville, is officially credited with seven (verified) Japs and three others (possible). He took part in the Coral Sea battle, flying from the deck of the Lexington over the towering Owen Stanley range of mountains to bomb Lae and Salamaua, on the coast of New Guinea.

He also participated in the Battle of Midway, working off the Yorktown, also ill-fated. He later served on the carriers Enterprise and Hornet. His home is at Fordyce, Ark., and he is married, the father of two boys aged 8 and 5.

We visiting newspaper men also ran into many other combat fliers at Jacksonville, all working hard at the job of showing young men who now have their wings "how it's done" in the combat zone.

A Quiet-Mannered Pilot

Conspicuous among them was quiet-mannered Lieut. Comdr. W. O. Burch, who is in command of one of the air fields in Jacksonville where our men daily practice dive bombing and "field carrier landings" (landing as if on a carrier deck).

Burch has a great record. He participated in the American raid on the Marshall and Gilbert Islands, the attacks on Lae and Salamaua, and on Tulagi, northeast of Guadalcanal. He also had a hand in the Coral Sea and Midway battles.

Another of the many instructors at Jacksonville is Lieut. Don Mason, who is directing anti-submarine training. He is credited with participating in the sinking of two enemy submarines. It was Mason who made the famous report, "Sighted sub, sank same."

I can't, for military reasons, reveal how many of these heroes are now teaching our "post graduate" fliers down here in Florida—but the number is adequate.

Gliders Now Added to U. S. Weapons Ready for Invasion

PLANNERS OF THE INVASION OF EUROPE now have another weapon in their arsenal. For months the U. S. Army has been training men and building gliders for this purpose. Now the gliders, capable of transporting jeeps, field artillery or a complement of 15 men in each, are ready, and the troops themselves are prepared to drop in for an unexpected call on any part of Axis-occupied Europe. Glider troops are pictured boarding their ship, left, while they are pictured, right, as they would appear to the defenders of an enemy airfield under attack by these newest air-borne fighters. DETROIT TRAITOR SAVED FROM NOOSE

Max Stephan Shouts With Joy, Weeps After FDR Spares Life

(By Associated Press)
MILAN, Mich., July 2.—Plucked back from the gallows' shadow seven hours before he was to have been hanged as a traitor, German-born Max Stephan kissed the hands of his lawyer and jailer, wept and shouted for joy until he collapsed—and today looked forward to some future presidential commutation restoring his freedom.

President Roosevelt spared his life. The chief executive commuted to a life term the death sentence which had been pronounced upon the one-time German army sergeant. The order declared "the President hopes that no one of his successors will commute that sentence," but to Stephan the words were cause for wild rejoicing.

James E. McCabe, one of Stephan's attorneys, said he expected no further plea for clemency would be made for his client while the nation is at war, but that the return of peace would be a different story.

In Detroit, Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle had "nothing to say" about the President's assertion that the death sentence he thrice had pronounced upon Stephan "was too severe" and "did not sufficiently take into account the statute which provides for the different qualities of treason."

The White House statement said President Roosevelt considered Stephan's crime of harboring and assisting an escaped German prisoner of war was less serious than the crime for which six Nazi saboteurs paid with their lives in Washington, the other to 30 years at hard labor.

Because he was following birds in flight, Columbus would have been led to what is now the United States if his voyage had been in spring rather than fall.

Machine for Fuse Springs Speeds Sorting, Testing

CLEVELAND — Another "bottleneck" in the way of all-out production for victory has been broken—thanks to the brainwork of engineers and technicians of the American Steel & Wire Co.

Heretofore, testing of fuse springs for various types of projectiles within extremely close tolerances was a tedious process performed entirely by hand. Failure of improper functioning of a fuse spring results in a mis-explosion, an impotent explosion or a complete "dud".

Trained specialists of the American Steel & Wire Co., got their heads together to solve the delaying bottleneck and came up with an intricate device which not only gives the springs a much more rigid examination than ever before but also sorts and classifies them.

Officials say the testing machine has "almost human" qualities.

U. S. E. S. TO HELP FARM LABOR DRIVE

Employment service agrees To Continue Program In Ohio

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, July 2.—The United States Employment Service agreed today to continue farm labor recruiting activities in the state with the aid of Ohio agricultural extension service funds, subject to the approval of Washington officials.

H. C. Ramsower, extension service director, said $17,035 would be available for U. S. E. S. cooperative work in the state program, with additional sums later, if needed. Final approval of the plan is awaited from the federal extension service and the War Manpower Commission in Washington.

Monetary assistance was offered the U. S. E. S. after Director Wade Hammond of the Employment Service in Ohio said the WMC would refuse funds for agriculture recruiting or placement work after July 1. The proposal would provide the U. S. E. S. $1,140 for personal services and $960 for other expenses in Summit county, $960 and $300 in Ross county, $810 and $225 in Washington county, and $1,140 for personal services in Franklin, Cuyahoga, Mahoning, Stark and Lucas counties.

A total of $7,600 would be available for other counties at the discretion of individual county agents, subject to post-audits by Ramsower.

Teacher Gives Colonial Bible Copy To College

HAMILTON, N. Y. — A copy of the first edition of the Christopher Sauer Bible, published 200 years ago in Germantown, Pa., and regarded by some historians as the most important project of the entire colonial press, has been presented to Colgate university's German department.

The book, a gift of Mrs. H. M. Rowe, widow of a former Hamilton attorney and now a teacher at the Rome state school, is highly valued because it represents the first serious attempt at Bible publishing in America. The volume will form the nucleus for a fund of German books in the German seminar room. Dr. C. Elwood Gates, chairman of the department, announced.

22 Slaughterers Face Opa Charges

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, July 2.—The Cleveland district Office of Price administration has ordered 22 slaughterers to appear at hearings opening in Youngstown today to defend themselves against charges of violations of OPA meat regulations.

A. R. Fioretti, chief OPA district enforcement attorney, said 15 more cases would be heard in Cleveland Monday. Reporting on a recently concluded OPA investigation in the 19-county Cleveland district, Fioretti announced investigators visited 338 farm or butcher slaughterers and found only 71 complying fully with OPA and food distribution agency regulations.

There were 123 instances of failure to register with OPA so that a check could be kept on the slaughterers' operations, the attorney declared. At least 26 of those who had registered had no ration banking accounts, he added.

Quota stamps were not used on wholesale cuts of 112 of the slaughterers and almost one-fourth of the slaughterers were found to be operating under unsanitary conditions, while an even larger number marketed their meat without benefit of government inspection. Fioretti asserted.

The investigations were conducted in the counties of Ashland, Ashtabula, Carroll, Columbiana, Cuyahoga, Erie, Geauga, Huron, Lake, Lorain, Mahoning, Medina, Portage, Richland, Stark, Summit, Trumbull, Tuscarawas and Wayne.

NAZIS LOSING IN WAR PRODUCTION

Four Years of Total War, Allied Attacks Beginning to Tell

BY R. E. BUNELLE
LONDON, July 2.—Strained by nearly four years of total war and hammered day and night by Allied sea power, German industry has lost the production race essential to victory, although Germany still has plenty of fight left, reliable British and foreign sources indicated today.

Figures gathered by these sources suggest that Germany has positively passed her peak as a war making power and is on the downgrade because of a production decline. More conclusive evidence of this will appear within the year, it was said.

A steady fall in steel production, a narrow margin of oil reserves, an inability to replace vital railway equipment, reduction in tank and plane production and other important symptoms of industrial deterioration appeared in the available figures, the sources said.

Locomotives are another weak spot in Nazi war production. Simplified utility models are being turned out at about 300 monthly, but normal wear is estimated to force discard of between 150 and 200 monthly and in May alone the RAF shot up or destroyed some 150.

Turn Out U-Boats
Plane production is reported to have dropped sharply this year. Up to last year it was estimated that the output was 2,500 to 3,000 monthly, half of them bombers. Now, according to the best information, the monthly output ranges between 1,700 to 2,100, of which two thirds are fighters for defense. Italian production also is said to have fallen — from 1,200 monthly last year to 600 or 700 now.

Only in submarine production is Germany on the upgrade, these sources said. Between 25 and 29 are being launched each month, compared with 16 to 19 a year ago, but better Allied defensive measures are said to be taking care of that increase.

From foreign contacts, quoted by a foreign diplomatic source, came the following additional reports of German shortages:

The Germans have ordered armored divisions moved by rail henceforth instead of motor transport to save oil, rubber and motors. During the past three weeks the Nazis have requisitioned all horses in Norway and Holland, presumably to help war transportation.

Thirty per cent of the crews of German merchant ships now plying the North sea are women.

Suspect Is Acquitted
PAULING, July 2.—Joseph M. Cooper, 45, Detroit war plant worker, was acquitted by a jury of five women and seven men yesterday of a second degree murder charge in the June 1 shotgun slaying of O. W. "Tim" Wright, a restaurant operator, at nearby Grover Hill.

Thinks 'Florida Velvet' Can End Cork Shortage

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — A. D. Jernigan, Jacksonville jeweler, believes he has found the solution to the Navy's shortages of cork and balsa wood for manufacture of life rafts.

It is wood from a tree which grows profusely on the south bank of the St. Johns river here. Called "Florida Velvet"—the wood is approximately 10 times lighter than cork and retains buoyancy after weeks of immersion in water.

The wood also could be used to servers, Jernigan became vitally interested in the navy's need for more life-saving equipment when his daughter, Lt. Margaret L. Jernigan, recently traveled to North Africa on an army transport ship.

Whiskey Impounded By State Officials

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, July 2.—A liquor department official said today 3,300 cases of out-of-state whiskey impounded here would be held until permit holders showed a buying pool had refunded amounts which ran purchase payments to more than double list prices.

Tom Craig, administrative assistant to Liquor Director Don Fisher, said data recorded with the state for import clearances listed prices ranging from $20.90 to $21.75 a case.

"We determined the retailers actually were charged $55 per case, so we withheld delivery of the shipment until payments in excess of the actual cost were refunded," Craig said.

Fisher's assistant reported he was informed Franklin county members of Ohio Taverns, Inc., bought 5,200 cases of liquor from a Chicago distributor through two Columbus agents, but that 1,900 cases were at a Vincennes, Ind., distillery.

Craig said whiskey impounded in a Columbus warehouse would be released "to permit holders who have evidence they received their refund," and added that some had receipts to show the money had been paid.

Retailers insisted, Craig said, they had no intention of attempting to evade ceiling prices on the liquor and James Huffman, OPA counsel here, asserted the federal agency would not object to release of the whiskey providing ceiling price regulations were not violated.

Fisher cautioned that permit holders found dealing in black market liquor operations faced possible revocation of their licenses. Bootlegging, too, is becoming troublesome, Fisher added. He explained that bootleggers were transporting liquor from other states and selling direct to retailers in circumvention of the state monopoly.

THAT MAN IS MINE by May Christie

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN
On the Friday night, before the party on Vince's yacht, Mr. Avery Willard received a telephone call at his Kentucky home. It came from Miami. From one of the members of the Jockey Club, who was also a steward at Hialeah racetrack.

"Could you come down here tomorrow?" the man asked. "I want to see you on an important matter concerning your stable."

Stingaree's owner agreed. He arrived at his Miami Beach home on Saturday morning. His wife arranged to meet him later at Hialeah Park.

At the Jockey Club, the man who summoned him said: "We have no evidence, Mr. Willard, but we have a strong suspicion concerning the actions of your jockey, Steve Gubbins, with an acquaintance of yours—Hank Bruger (who incidentally is a racing tout, and keeps highly questionable company)—and a beautiful blonde."

Avery Willard looked worried. He certainly did not want to discredit his own stable! He replied: "You must postpone any action until I've thoroughly investigated whatever you're driving at, Smithson. Shoot!"

"It appears that one of the track detectives, who had been keeping an eye on Hank Bruger at last Saturday's meet at Hialeah, saw him, shortly before the feature race, in suspicious conversation with the blonde. Not long after the race, she followed this fellow into one of the entrances at the back of the grandstand. He evidently had an assistant. Hardly anyone was around at the time. The dick made further private investigation, and was told that Steve Gubbins had been seen entering the same spot a few minutes before. Evidently the jockey left by another exit, or the waiting dick would have seen him also."

"But the three weren't actually seen together?" Stingaree's owner asked.

"No. Presently the blonde was seen rushing from the place, in evident worry. Hank Bruger came out after her."

Avery puffed at his cigar. "Is that all?"

"No. There's more. Some of the fellows told me last night that they'd seen the newsreel of the feature race—it didn't show till Thursday here—and they thought it looked—well—fishy!"

"How come?"

"Looked like your jockey was pulling the favorite as he came down the home stretch. So certain was one of 'em that he sat the whole show round a second time—and it didn't lessen his suspicion either."

"Why, it's impossible! Steven Gubbins is thoroughly reliable. He's been with me for years!"

"Nonetheless, in my opinion," said the prominent steward of the Jockey Club, "the situation, taking it by and large, rates looking into."

"Where is this newsreel showing?"

"We saw it at the Tantomount Theatre."

"Let's go there."

The party went off together, and saw the feature newsreel. Afterwards, perturbed but still uncertain, Avery Willard phoned the Hollywood office of one of the Tantomount "big shots," who was a friend of his. He asked him to instruct the Miami Tantomount office to loan him a copy of the race-reel right away.

This was at once done. Avery's messenger returned shortly to the Jockey Club with the copy. Also, at his request, a film projector and a screen, accompanied by an operator. Avery said to Smithson: "I guess it would be better not to ask Steve to come here. It would look suspicious to him. I'll phone for a suite at the Biltmore right away and we'll go over with the operator. From there, I'll call Steve at the stables to come over. We'll give him a surprise! The operator will have made the set-up in an adjoining room, and Steve will see the newsreel for himself."

Smithson said: "I'll have the detective who is working on the case come along too."

The four men then drove to the Biltmore and went up, complete with newsreel, screen and projector, to the suite Avery had engaged.

Steve Gubbins was reached by phone. Presently he arrived. What neither he nor his boss knew, was that the detective had phoned from the Biltmore to two fellow-detectives to go and search the jockey's apartment, during his absence, in a small hotel near the race track.

"Seen the newsreel of the race, Steve?" Stingaree's owner casually began.

The jockey answered promptly: "Yes, sir. Not a very clear film, on account of the weather."

"Leave us alone for a moment," his boss said, nodding to Smithson. "Anything wrong, sir?" Steve obsequiously inquired.

"I've seen the film, Steve, and it looks to me—and others—as though you pulled the horse in the home stretch!"

Indignant surprise lit the monkey-like face of the jockey.

"Good heavens, sir! No! Why, my whole life has been riding the ponies! That's a—wicked thing to accuse me of, sir! But you can't mean it, Mr. Willard! Someone's been trying to poison you against me!"

"No! It did seem very odd to me at the time! Stingaree was in perfect condition. You heard what the vets said when they examined him."

"I'm as much in the dark as you are, sir! The animal failed in the home stretch—though I gave him my all! Listen, Mr. Willard, why would I risk losing my job with you? Why would I jeopardize my living, when all I've got is my salary from you?"

Avery Willard slid open double communicating doors. The detective and Mr. Smithson of the Jockey Club were already seated in a dim corner of the livingroom. The operator was showing the feature film on the screen.

"Stop it right here!" Stingaree's owner ordered. "Steve—see! Motionless on the screen, atop the horse, Steve was pulling him..."

"Go on now," came the order. And then: "Stop!" once again. This time, it was even more obvious that the jockey was holding the horse back.

"That's all," said Stingaree's owner curtly, "we don't have to see it again."

Smithson switched the lights on. They confronted Steve. A heavy scowl was on the monkey-like face.

"Well, what do you have to say, Steve?"

"That the film wasn't clear—with the clouds and the dust. That I wouldn't pull a rotten trick like that, sir! That I'm a poor guy, and all I've got is what you pay me!" he whined.

At that psychological moment another door to the livingroom opened, and in walked the detectives who had just searched the jockey's apartment.

One of them opened a small leather case. He addressed the detective who had sent them there. He said: "We got a haul. Ten thousand dollars in bills. Some of 'em sewed inside his mattress. The rest hidden under a floor board."

"Ten thousand dollars!" echoed Stingaree's owner, staring at the now pale and trembling jockey, "and you just told us you were a poor guy—that all you'd got is what I pay you, huh?"

"Better come across, Gubbins," the senior detective said. "Admit you got those ten thousand bucks from the Red Rust gang, for pulling the horse?"

"I don't know any such gang," Steve whined.

"You lie! You went to meet Hank Bruger under the grandstand, after the race, and he slipped you the money!"

Steve was cornered. He tried to bluff it out. To no avail.

"If you don't confess, we'll have you sent up for a long stretch," the detective told him.

He broke down, then. He whimpered: "Since you've got the goods on me, I'll tell all... that is, if you promise you won't send me to prison?"

"Not if you come across clean," was the reply.

"That—swine of a Hank Bruger double-crossed me! He gave me only half what the gang promised me. I was to get $20,000 if I pulled the horse!"

Stingaree's owner barked: "Where is Hank Bruger now?"

"In New Orleans," said the senior detective. "May I use the phone? I'll call a pal of mine at Oriental Park, and maybe he can pick him up."

Presently, over the long-distance phone: "Is that you, Bud... This is Chuck Hopkins speaking... I want you to check up on something right away... We have information that a tall, dark guy—one Hank Bruger, usually in a checkered gray suit... Oh, you know him? ... He belongs to the Red Rust gang... Detain him, will you? ... I'm flying over with a warrant, and will bring him back here... Oh, and see if he has a good-looking blonde along... pick her up too, will you?"

There is no catch in the offer, an enemy alien's patent can be used royalty free throughout the life of the patent. Before the war Germany held a dominating position in chemical, metallurgical and optical fields. Research was subsidized by the German government. American consumers had to pay exaggerated prices for products of German patent monopolies. With the action of the U. S. government this now is ended. White Sox Rookie Outfielder Is League's Leading Hitter

CURTRIGHT BOASTS .362 AVERAGE FOR 26-GAME STREAK

Right-Hand Hitter's Score
10 Points Better Than
Babe Dahlgren

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Since Joe DiMaggio swept through his spectacular 56-game hitting streak two years ago every other consecutive-game hitting performance has been dwarfed into insignificance.

But a little known rookie outfielder for the Chicago White Sox, Guy Paxton Curtright, right now is nursing a hit hitting streak that has reached 26 games and it rates attention from the fans not only because it is the longest of the year but because it has made Curtright currently the leading batter in the major leagues.

His average today was a glossy .362, ten points better than Babe Dahlgren of the Phillies, the National league leader, and 24 better than Vernon Stephens of the St. Louis Browns, who has been the American league pace-maker most of the spring.

Curtright is a chunky right-handed hitter whom the White Sox brought up from St. Paul this spring. He made only one hit yesterday, but this was a lousy triple that he kept his streak going although it did not figure in the Sox' 2-0 triumph over the Washington Senators.

The Cleveland Indians were given a 3-2 decision over the New York Yankees when Rookie Charley Wenzeloff walked two men with the bases loaded in the first inning and Catcher Ken Sears fumbled a grounder with two out in the eighth.

Detroit outlasted 12-7, nosed out the Red Sox 3-2 when Ned Harris singled with the bases loaded in the ninth and the St. Louis Browns trampled the Philadelphia Athletics a little more firmly into the American league cellar with a 2-1 eleven-inning victory.

In the National league the Brooklyn Dodgers lost a wild 10-9 12-inning verdict to Cincinnati and missed a chance to move fractionally ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals in first place.

Chicago nosed out the Boston Braves 6-5 for the seventh time this season and Philadelphia divided a doubleheader with Pittsburgh. Schoolboy Rowe pitched five-hit ball to win the first game for the Phillies 6-1 and Bob Kilgore nailed the second 2-1 with seven-hit hurling.

National League All-Stars Boast Dahlgren's Name

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 2. — A new chapter in the baseball life of Philadelphia's "Babe" Dahlgren, the player no one wanted until he joined the Philadelphia Phillies, will be written in Philadelphia's Shibe park the night of July 13.

The Babe, leading National league hitter, was one of a squad of 25 picked yesterday to represent the senior circuit in the annual All-Star baseball game that night against the American league All-Stars.

It is the first time that Dahlgren has been named for the midyear classic. If he plays as he has for Bucky Harris' rejuvenated Phillies he may easily be the star of the game.

The team roster: Pitchers — Morton Cooper, Max Lanier and Howard Pollet, St. Louis; Truett "Rip" Sewell, Pittsburgh; Claude Passeau, Chicago; Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati; and Al Javery, Boston.

Catchers — Walker Cooper, St. Louis; Mickey Owen, Brooklyn, and Ernie Lombardi, New York.

Infielders — Babe Dahlgren, Philadelphia; Frank McCormick, Lonnie Frey and Eddie Miller, Cincinnati; Martin Marion and George Kuvinski, St. Louis; Billy Herman, Brooklyn, and Stanley Hack, Chicago.

Outfielders — Stan Musial and Harry Walker, St. Louis; Vince DiMaggio, Pittsburgh; Billy Nicholson, Chicago; Mel Ott, New York; Fred "Dixie" Walker and Augie Galan, Brooklyn.

Batting practice pitchers — St. Johnson, Philadelphia and Clyde Shoun, Cincinnati.

Batting practice catcher — Virgil "Spud" Davis, Pittsburgh.

Coaches — Mike Gonzales, St. Louis, and Frankie Frisch, Pittsburgh.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Maybe you think things are a bit dull in the sports line, but the word is that they're having a right good season in northern Africa.

We have this straight from Corp. Vince Murphy, occasional contributor to this column and son of Sports Editor Jimmy Murphy of the Canton (Ill.) Daily Ledger.

V-MAIL

"Probably the most interesting event yet pulled off in N. Africa, excluding Rommel's bicycle act," Vince writes, "was a softball game played recently for a $2,000 pot. It seems that a news story praising a team composed of a group of former Texas soldiers playing under the name of the 'Texans' was read by members of a mid-western unit whose ball club is called the 'Omvas.' The Omvas claimed a prior victory over the Texans and allowed they could repeat. Upshot of the discussion was the decision that each team would wager 1,000 skins on a winner-take-all basis.

Partisans of both teams were quick to collect funds to back their favorites and the game drew 3,000 fans. The Omvas took the decision 6-4, although the Texans gave them a mighty scare in the final inning when one of the Lone Star boys hoisted a mighty drive that the Omvas centerfielder had to take off the fence."

Nat Fleischer, historian of the ring, whose latest list shows 3,068 professional boxers and about twice as many amateurs in the armor forces, also has been hearing from northern Africa. Weekly fight shows in Tunisia have been drawing big crowds and when American soldiers happen meet up with native boxers the boys really lay their dough on the line to back their favorites.

DOMESTIC DEPT.

When Clark Shaughnessy collected his first Pitt football squad for practice the other day, he told them, "We will have as many as 10,000 pass plays." And in reply to a few skeptical looks, Clark insisted that with small variations he might really approach that figure.

Since Pitt has only six veterans on a squad of 56, one variation likely will be the play where the coach buries his face in his hand and refuses to look until it's over.

END SERIES TODAY

(By Associated Press)
BROOKLYN, July 2.—The Cincinnati Reds and the Brooklyn Dodgers take to the twilight today to wind up their four-game series, which so far has proved little except that you never know what's going to happen in Brooklyn.

Elmer Riddle, final and winning pitcher of yesterday's 12-inning 10-9 Cincinnati victory, is down to throw for the Reds again today, against Kirby Higbe.

Riddle worked only the 12th inning of yesterday's merry-go-round and half-protected a two-run lead the Reds put together in their half. Elmer handed out three walks and a single to let the Dodgers creep up, then he got the next three men on post fouls.

The Reds got to Bo-Bo Newsom for four singles and a squeeze hunt to score their two runs in the 12th. Lonnie Frey, Cincinnati second baseman, hit his first home run of the season in the sixth.

Tied seven all in the fifth, Strains came through with two more runs in the sixth to beat Demings, 9 to 7, in one of two Class A league softball games played last night at Centennial park.

The other senior loop game saw the Bombers sink the Salem China nine, 11 to 6.

Only one Class B league game was completed, Sheens running away with the Twin Beauty team, 15 to 2. The Class B fracas between Metzgers and the Paxsons was called in the fifth inning when players on both sides continued to violate league rules.

National Trapshoot At Vandalia Will Be Held

VANDALIA, July 2.—The annual National Trapshoot, including the famed Grand American, will be held this year, Ray Loring, manager of the Amateur Trapshoot association, announced today.

The events, which in pre-war days stretched over a week, will be run off in three ways—Aug. 25, 26 and 27. All preliminary events have been cancelled and 500 targets, embracing all major events, will be spaced over the three days, Loring said.

Athlete In Navy

OXFORD, July 2.—Miami university reported Bob Wright, former Ohio State university hurdler star, is among 400 new enrollees in the naval training program here.

Strains Win From Demings, 9-7; Bombers Drop Potters

Tied seven all in the fifth, Strains came through with two more runs in the sixth to beat Demings, 9 to 7, in one of two Class A league softball games played last night at Centennial park.

The other senior loop game saw the Bombers sink the Salem China nine, 11 to 6.

Only one Class B league game was completed, Sheens running away with the Twin Beauty team, 15 to 2. The Class B fracas between Metzgers and the Paxsons was called in the fifth inning when players on both sides continued to violate league rules.

Consumer Market Squeezed By Record War Production

By VICTOR HACKLER
Associated Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, July 1—Roaring production, full employment and civilian economy heavily restricted by the insatiable demands of war—that was the picture of American industry and business at the half-way mark of 1943.

Production stepped up to a rate undreamed of a few years ago. Yet so much of that output was war material that the civilian got less and less, and much of that was rationed.

The goal for war production in 1943 was lifted to $106,000,000,000 and we were already producing war materials at a rate nearly six times as great as before Pearl Harbor. The 1943 goal is 80 percent greater than 1942's total of $59,000,000,000. It includes munitions, war construction, and the paying, feeding and equipping of the armed forces.

In 1942, American plants turned out 47,694 planes. The emphasis now is on heavier planes of all types, and still the expectation is that between 90,000 and 100,000 planes will be built in 1943.

National Income Boosted

In a report to the President, Donald M. Nelson, War Production Board chairman, said: "Today, we are turning out nearly as much material for war, measured in dollar value, as we ever produced for our peacetime needs—and we have enough industrial power left over to keep civilian standards of living at a level higher than many of us dared hope for."

All this production boosted the national income to an estimated $135,000,000,000 a year. And this at a time when there was less and less available in consumer goods. That provided the elements for a dangerous inflation, and the problem of preventing a runaway rise in the price level achieved importance second only to that of winning the war.

The steps taken to prevent or control inflation were many, and each became the subject of bitter controversy. More and more items were rationed. Wages and salaries were ordered stabilized and frozen to a formula based on the cost of living. And strenuous efforts were exerted to keep the cost of living where it was—or nearly there. It had already risen 26 per cent since the war started in 1939. "Roll-back" subsidies were attempted to keep food prices particularly from getting out of hand.

Steps Against Inflation

The public had more money, and there was less on which to spend that money. In an effort to get the excess (and potentially inflationary) dollars out of the hands of the buying public, two major steps were taken:

1. An unparalleled tax program was enacted. The federal tax bill alone was raised to $33,000,000,000. This was $10,000,000,000 more than the previous year, and included a 2 percent withholding tax on incomes.

2. A vigorous campaign was waged to get the people to buy bonds and "let your dollars fight." In addition to a steady drive aimed at payroll deductions of at least 10 percent for bond purchases, two special campaigns were held. The first brought in $12,900,000,000 in bond purchases, the second $18,500,000,000. This compares with $7,000,000,000 in the most successful Liberty Loan drive of World War I.

The old problems of idle factories and men out of work all but disappeared. Estimates of total employment reached a record high of 60,900,000 and the most frequently heard phrase in any discussion of employment was "manpower shortage". So serious did it become that elaborate regulations were issued to stop poaching of workers, to institute longer work weeks, and to get man and woman-power into the industries most vitally concerned with the war effort.

Reflecting business improvement generally, the New York stock market stretched its advance into a 15-month bull market. The Associated Press average of 60 issues hit $41.73 a share on Jan. 2, and that point, higher than the best of 1942, has remained the lowest of this year.

Steadily advancing prices pushed the AP average to a peak for more than three years at $52.20 a share by early June, with only brief reactions marking the upward trend.

Stock Trading Increases

With the higher prices came better times for brokers in the form of increased public participation in the stock market. Compared with the 200,000 and 300,000 share days of a year ago, the volume of trading in 1943 was good indeed. On many days more than 2,000,000 shares changed hands and the average this year has been better than 1,000,000 shares a day.

Post-war planning became the subject of much discussion and heated debate. All were agreed that we must try to prevent such a depression as usually has followed wars, and the sudden shift from a wartime to a peacetime economy. And everybody also wanted to keep employment to the highest possible levels. But from there on, it was every man for himself—and every organization too, there being some 150 of them already set up to study just such problems.

Post-War Questions

Most of the controversy in post-war planning centered on the roles to be taken by private enterprise and the government. You could start a good fight almost anywhere and get some fine theories tossed at you by asking such questions as these:

What should the government do about the many plants it owns and now leases to manufacturers? About the equipment it owns in private plants?

How quickly should price ceilings and rationing restrictions be removed, and the economic system returned to the old supply and demand basis?

Can industry handle the employment problem during the reconversion period, or must government step in and help?

Can the public debt continue to rise without topping the nation's financial structure and if so, how far?

Is there international salvation or international chaos in a controlled currency plan such as those proposed by Keynes and White?
